

> “I don’t write for clicks. I write for God.”

ETERNAL LOUNGE – OUTSIDE OF SPACE AND TIME

Newton, examining an apple:

“I found this under a tree. How the hell did it get there?”

Pascal, casually dealing theological poker chips:

“I bet 50/50 there’s a God. Even odds. Infinite gain. You in?”

Descartes, eyes darting, looking paranoid AF:

“Am I even here... or has a demon conjured a dream across my senses?”

Suddenly, a ripple in spacetime. Enter: Einstein.

Hair like a Van de Graaff explosion. Calm as a Buddhist physicist.

He surveys the scene, smirks, and delivers the line:

> “There’s more to gravity than mass.”

CUT TO BLACK

TITLE CARD: The Thinkers – Episode 1: The Gravity of the Situation